

Dawson James Securities Announces Addition of Veteran Life Science Analyst Jason Kolbert

Boca Raton, FL, November 29th, 2018-- Dawson James Securities, Inc., is pleased to announce the addition of Jason Kolbert as Managing Director, Head of Healthcare Research based in New York.

Robert D. Keyser, CEO of Dawson James says, "We are looking forward to Jason joining Robert Wasserman and Carol Ann Werther on the Healthcare team, along with Barry Sine who leads our Technology, Media and Telecom coverage." Mr. Keyser continues "The equity environment remains highly competitive and it has never been more important for a firm to have high quality research combined with institutional and retail outreach to help investors identify the next successful emerging growth company."

Mr. Kolbert says, "I'm thrilled to be part of the Dawson James platform with the responsibility to build upon their respected research product that brings institutional quality analysis to small and middle capitalized companies working towards broadening their shareholder base."

Jason's career began as a chemist in the pharmaceutical industry and evolved into a product and marketing manager with Schering-Plough in Japan. Upon returning from Japan, Jason joined Salomon Smith Barney, as a research associate which has now evolved into a 20-year career on Wall Street as a leader in the Healthcare space.

Jason's coverage will be across multiple therapeutic areas in biotechnology, specialty pharmaceuticals, and medical devices. As an analyst Jason has developed a high level of expertise in oncology, virology and cell-based medicine such as CAR (Chimeric Antigen Receptor)-T cells and regenerative medicine (stem cells).

Mr. Kolbert spent the last year as a senior biotechnology analyst at HC Wainwright and previously seven years at the Maxim group, where he was an Executive Managing Director and the Head of Healthcare Research at the firm. During this period Jason and his team covered 80 names across the healthcare vertical. Jason's Wall Street career began with seven years at Citi Group followed by several years on the buy side as a portfolio manager with the Susquehanna International Group. Mr. Kolbert returned to his sell-side role after spending time in Industry as the head of business development for a public cell therapy company. Mr. Kolbert holds an undergraduate degree from the State University of New York in Chemistry and a Master's in Business Administration from the University of New Haven.
